Valuing People says that people with learning disabilities should:-

- Have exactly the same rights as everyone else
- Be given a chance to be independent if that is what they want
- Be able to say what they need, be given a choice, and be part of their local communities. This is called integration

Hillingdon health and social care partners want to try to make sure that people with learning disabilities have:-

- Choice and control about how they want to live their life and be able to do what they want to do
- Good Lives and are able to get a job and go to college or do meaningful activities during the day, evenings and at weekends
- Better Health The National Health Service (The NHS) must get better at including people with learning disabilities in everything that they do
- Better housing to live in, with a choice of where they want to live

At the Hillingdon Hospital we will work with people with learning disabilities, their families, the local community and other agencies to:

- Get better at communicating and listening to all people with learning disabilities
- Give you information that is clear and easy to understand about what we can and can't do
• Help people with learning disabilities to have as much choice and control as possible over their care and treatment

• Work with others to look at the problems people with learning disabilities have, when using ordinary services like health

• Work to make the services we offer are the best they can be

• Listen to what people say, be open to new ideas, and provide services that are there when people need them

• Listen to what carers say, finding out what they need

• Help our staff to work in a person centred way with individuals
• Ensure our staff treats everybody as equals, with respect and kindness, and value people that are different

• Help our staff to do their job, making sure they have the chance to build their skills and knowledge

• Encourage new ideas and welcome challenges

• Welcome feedback, listen to complaints and try to make things better